INTRODUCTION.

§ 1. Discovery and Decipherment of the MS.

THE manuscript from which this version of the Four Gospels has been transcribed was found by me in the Convent of St Catharine, on Mount Sinai, in the month of February, 1892. It was shown to me by the late Librarian, Galaktion, amongst a number of other Syriac MSS. and I was attracted by its look of venerable antiquity, also still more by the fact that, as nearly all its leaves were glued together, my eyes were undoubtedly the first which had gazed intelligently on it for centuries. On separating the leaves with my fingers I saw that it was a palimpsest; that the upper, or later writing, was a Martyrology, or collection of lives of women-saints, and that the under, or earlier one, contained a good portion of the Synoptic Gospels[1]. This I judged from the titles, and from the initial or final words of the lines which I could decipher along the margins. I therefore resolved, with the help of my sister, Mrs James Young Gibson, to photograph the whole book and thus take a complete copy home to Cambridge. During the process of development the first pages were shown to several Syriac scholars, whose eyes were, like my own, not sufficiently keen to read between the lines of writing in the photographs; but presently more favourable specimens appeared, and in the month of July 1892 some of these were deciphered by Professor Bensly and by Mr F. C. Burkitt, and were pronounced by them to belong to a version nearly allied to the so-called Curetonian, which has hitherto been known only from a single imperfect copy.

It was now apparent that the manuscript was of great importance for Biblical criticism, but that the work of extracting the ancient text from it would be a very arduous one. Prof. Bensly and Mr Burkitt continued to work at the photographs, and some thirty pages were deciphered in the course of the autumn. But they soon perceived that a direct inspection of the MS. was necessary, and prepared to travel to Sinai for this purpose, accompanied by their wives. At my request, they were joined by Mr J. Rendel Harris. To him, indeed, we owed our first introduction to both monks and manuscripts. He had gained the goodwill of the former in 1889, when he discovered the Apology of Aristides; and he had not only instructed me how to obtain the rare privilege of access to these Syriac books, but had taught me the art of photography.

[1] I did not, at the first examination, recognize any part of the Gospel of John.

My sister and I accompanied the party, in order that there might be no risk of failure on the part of our friends in getting control of the manuscript. We received a hearty welcome from the monks, especially from Galaktion, who was then Hegoumenos or Abbot. He at once gave the palimpsest into my keeping, and thus, during a period of forty days (8 Feb. to 20 March 1893), Messrs Bensly, Harris, and Burkitt transcribed the text of the Four Gospels, now printed in this volume. The pages which had been done previously from my photographs by Mr Burkitt were of course re-read with the MS.

The name of each transcriber is signified by his initials at the foot of the pages for which he is responsible; where two names appear, they denote that the page has been revised by these two transcribers; and where the initials appear in square brackets, it denotes pages that have been read from my photographs since our return. The printed text reproduces that of the MS. line for line.

§ 2. Description of the MS. The present condition of the volume, and the contents of the upper writing.

Our manuscript is numbered 30 in the Syriac catalogue of the Sinai Library, and is throughout a palimpsest. The volume consists of 182 leaves of vellum, including a leaf pasted in the cover; the quires are quinions (i.e. each consists of five pairs of conjugate leaves), except the eighteenth and last which has six pairs; and they are numbered doubly, viz. with Syriac quire numbers running in the usual order, and with Georgian signatures running the opposite way, which my sister was the first to observe. The vellum was once stout, but is now disposed to crumble. The leaves measure $8\frac{5}{8}$ inches by $6\frac{1}{4}$. When I first saw them they were covered with the dust of centuries, and were stained in parts with a greasy substance, so that the steam of the kettle had to be used, by the Librarian's direction, to separate some of them. The whole book had apparently undergone a cleansing process during the interval between my two visits to the Convent.

The upper writing (which, as already stated, is a Martyrology) is in a single column, in strong clear characters, with 26 lines on each page. The first leaf is in the binding, so that only the verso can be easily seen; this, like the recto of the second leaf, is covered by a pattern of painted circles, beneath which the earlier writing occasionally appears. On the verso of the second leaf, i.e. on the fourth page, is the preface to the Martyrology. It runs thus:

ܒܠ : ܚܝܠܗ : ܕܡܪܢ : ܝܫܘܥ : ܡܫܝܚܐ : ܒܪ(ܗ) : ܕܐܠܗܐ : ܚܝܐ :

ܡܫܪܐ : ܐܢܐ : ܐܢܐ : ܚܛܝܐ : ܝܘܚܢܢ : ܚܒܝܫܐ : ܕܒܝܬ. ܡܪ̈ܝ : ܡܓܒܝܐ : ܕܐܟܬܘܒ :

Again, an Apology concerning the Faith.

"I believe in one Holy Trinity, of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, a glorious essence, and an exalted Godhead. The Son, who is not younger than His Father; and the Father, who is not older than His offspring; and the Holy Ghost, proceeding, of the same substance as the Father and the Son. We confess one Trinity with distinction of Persons, but one God with equality of nature.

"For there is one power, and one authority, one worship, one lordship, one government, one Godhead, wherein there is neither greater nor lesser, nor commanding, nor commanded, nor weaker, nor more powerful.

"But we know that because the head of our race, Adam, lapsed from the observance of the divine commandments, he listened to the counsel of the Wicked One, his deceiver, and clave to him who decorated him with all beautiful ornaments, and subjugated him beneath the dominion of death, of Satan, and of sin. And there was not a man of his offspring who could deliver him, therefore He, the Creator of [his] nature, the Father and Lord of all, spared His image, that it should not perish; and He sent His beloved Son, the Word, God the offspring of His nature[1], for us, and for our salvation. And He came down from the Heavenly throne, without separating from the hidden bosom of His Father, and dwelt in the pure and holy womb of a holy and glorious virgin, our Lady Mary, the God-bearing, she who was of the seed of the house of David; and in her and from her He took a body, and became man, and was in her pure and holy womb nine months, like other infants; and He was born according to nature and transcending nature without destroying her virginity by His coming forth. And this is in truth a marvel; His mother keeping .... and her virginity in giving Him birth. Her virginity did not prevent her conception, and her giving birth did not destroy her virginity; but she is a virgin in truth and a mother in reality, thus the holy Child who was born from her by a miracle, is God in truth; and the same is true man apart from sin, perfect in His Godhead; and the same is perfect in His manhood; of the same substance with the Father in his Godhead; and He likewise of the same substance as His mother in His manhood. He is of the earth, and He is of heaven. He enwraps heaven and earth by the nod of His will, and He was wrapped in swaddling-clothes in the flesh in Bethlehem of Judæa. He was circumcised in the flesh according to the law of Moses, He who in His Godhead gave the seal of circumcision to those of the house of Abraham. He was hungry, like a man, and He Himself fed thousands as a God. He slept in the ship like a man, and He Himself rebuked the sea and it was still; He thirsted for water in the flesh, and sought water from the Samaritan woman, and He gave her living water that she should never thirst. He wept as a man at the grave of Lazarus, and He raised him as a God from amongst the dead. He to whom all these things belong suffered and was crucified for our sakes in the flesh, in the days of Pontius Pilate, and He died and was buried, and rose from amongst the dead on the third day, and ascended to Heaven, and sat on the right hand of the Godhead in the highest heavens; and He is worshipped and glorified in the heights and the depths, and we look for His second coming, which shall be with glory to judge therein the dead and the living.

"And we anathematize with our mouth and with our heart, and with our tongue, Nestorius, and Eutyches, and Dioscurus, and their wicked doctrine, and whosoever he be, who adds to or diminishes or changes anything of this faith of the three hundred and eighteen, and that of the hundred and of the fifty holy fathers, and that of the two hundred, and that great and œcumenical one of the six hundred and thirty-six; and whosoever doth not confess the Blessed Mary, the God-bearing, let him fall from the adoption of sons, which is promised to those who believe rightly. And whosoever he be who from the hour that the holy angel announced to the holy virgin, and said to her: Hail to thee, thou blessed among women, our Lord is with thee, thou who art full of grace; for the Holy Spirit shall come, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee, because that which shall be born of thee is holy, and shall be called the Son of the Highest; whosoever, [I say] who shall separate His Godhead from His manhood, or shall confound it, or shall mix it, and shall say, God on the one hand, and man on the other side, the anathema of Saint Paul shall be upon him. And whosoever calls the Christ a common man, or God without a body, shall inherit the inheritance of Judas Iscariot, and the same anathema shall be upon every one who shall say that He suffered in the Divine nature; for in His own flesh He suffered, He, the only Son of God, Our Lord Jesus the Christ, whose are the heights, because He is God, and whose are the humiliations, because He is at the same time man; His are the glorious things and the base things. * * * *

'And whosoever shall have one thing in his heart and another in his mouth, his part shall be with those who called out against the Christ, the Son of God, 'Crucify Him, crucify Him.'

"These things we have written in sorrow, for your love, for your glory and for the confutation of accusers.

"These then are heretics, those who rejoice in schisms rather than in quiet, and in disturbance rather than in peace; whom may God in His grace bring back to the knowledge of the truth, and upon all be His mercies for ever and ever. The Apology concerning the Faith is ended."

The date of the upper writing is at the top of the verso on fol. 181. It occupies a few lines, of which only a few words are legible, the rest of the page, which was probably written with red ink, being completely faded. It had distinctly suffered somewhat during the period between my two visits, and I therefore give it as I transcribed it in 1892.

"The book was finished in the year a thousand and nine.. of Alexander the Macedonian son [of Philip]....[in the month] Tammuz; on the third day..... .... of the day .... may they be .... who wrote the book .... yea, and amen."

I at first thought that this date ought to read, ܐܠܦ ܘܬܫܥ ܕܐܠܟܣܢܕܪܘܣ.

I therefore gave the date as 697. A second inspection in 1893, however, has made me see that a hole which occurs in the vellum immediately after the word ܬܫܥ may be filled in either by ܡܐܐ 100, or by ܝܢ the termination of ܬܫܥܝܢ 90. The first would bring it down to the sixteenth century, which is manifestly absurd, and therefore we are almost shut up to the conclusion that it is ܬܫܥܝܢ, which gives A.D. 778. With this coincides the opinion of Professor Bensly, who was alike skilful and cautious in matters of Syriac Palaeography, and who assigned the upper writing to the eighth century.

§ 3. The older books which were pulled to pieces to supply the scribe with vellum for the Martyrology.

The scribe of the Martyrology did not write on new vellum, but supplied himself with material by pulling old volumes to pieces and cleaning off the original writing. But, as the obliteration was not perfect, we can discover what the old books sacrificed to his purpose were, and a great part of their contents can still be deciphered. The first volume which he attacked was an ancient copy of the Four Gospels in Syriac—the subject of the present publication—which supplied the vellum for the first fourteen quires and one pair of leaves in the fifteenth quire, or 142 leaves in all. Of course the Gospel MS. had to be picked to pieces when the writing was washed off and was reduced to a mere heap of pairs of leaves, out of which John the Recluse formed his new quires at random, without the least reference to the original order. Thus with every new leaf the decipherers of the old writing found themselves in a different part of the gospels, and the decipherment had to be followed by a reconstruction of the old quiring and original order of the leaves. The results of this reconstruction and the present order of the leaves are exhibited in the tables (infra, pp. xxv ff.) which will make the matter clearer than any mere verbal description.

[1] We should expect ܒܪ ܦܝܠܝܦܘܣ ܡܩܕܘܢܝܐ

But the Syriac MS. of the Gospels did not suffice for the needs of John the Recluse. When he reached his fifteenth quire only two leaves of it were left, and to make up the quinion he borrowed four leaves from a Greek MS., identified by Mr Burkitt as containing part of the Gospel of John, belonging to the fourth century; and four leaves out of a Syriac volume of Apocrypha.

The fifteenth quire was composed as follows:

Syriac (Acts of Thomas)
Greek (Gospel)
Syriac (Gospel)
Greek (Gospel)
Syriac (Apocryphal)
} together with their five conjugate leaves in the reverse order.

The MS. of the Syriac Gospels was now apparently exhausted, and the scribe continued with leaves from the volume of Syriac Apocrypha (Acts of Thomas and Repose of the Virgin, as identified by Mr Burkitt).

Thus the sixteenth quire was composed as follows:

Syriac (Repose of Mary)
Syriac (Acts of Thomas)
Syriac (Acts of Thomas)
Syriac (Acts of Thomas)
Syriac (Repose of Mary)
} together with their five conjugate leaves.

The vellum of this MS. is coarser than that of the Gospels. The seventeenth quire is taken entirely from it. In the eighteenth a fourth MS. is employed, a Greek one, in sloping uncials of the eighth century; the scribe thus destroying a text almost contemporary with himself. From this MS. (the contents of which have not yet been identified) he took six double leaves, including a leaf which is pasted in the cover: thus completing a volume of 182 leaves.

Before leaving this point it is interesting to observe that some further leaves of the MS. of Syriac Apocrypha are, perhaps, extant in the Sinai library. The importance of this observation, which I owe to Mr Harris, lies in the fact that the coincidence, if established, renders it almost certain that the MS. of the Martyrology was actually written at Sinai, although in his preface the scribe calls himself John of Beth Mari Ḳaddish. How else would the stray leaves of the destroyed MS. of Syriac Apocrypha have found their way thither?

Mr Harris thinks that the remainder of the MS. of Apocrypha was employed in the palimpsest Arabic MS. which is numbered 588 in the Catalogue of the Sinai Arabic Codices. This identification rests (1) on the similarity of the vellum, (2) on the probable agreement in size, the leaves of the Syriac Apocryphal text used by John the Recluse having been slightly cut at the edges in order to harmonize with the rest of the volume, (3) on the character of the script, and (4) on the coincidence of the contents. In confirmation we subjoin the following extract from Mr Harris's transcripts, which clearly belongs to some form of the tract known as the Repose of the Virgin:

Cod. 588 also contains in its palimpsest portion the Protevangelium or Gospel of the Infancy and the Boyhood of Jesus or Gospel of Thomas in a very early form; the text of the latter agrees fairly with the fragments given by Wright[1] from a sixth century MS. which in the judgment of B. H. Cowper contain "a more ancient text than any other now extant complete." As it is possible that some more of this early text may be rendered accessible from the Sinai MSS. we add a specimen:

[1] Contributions to the Apocryphal Literature of the New Testament; London, 1865. The text of Wright is taken from Cod. Mus. Brit., Add. 14,484.

The Boyhood of Jesus. The boy Jesus, the Christ, when he was five years old was playing by the ford of a stream of water, and he was taking and damming up the water, and was directing it in channels . . . . into a pool . . . . soft clay he moulded twelve sparrows. Now it was the sabbath, and there was a great . . . . . with him . . . . . these things and went to Joseph his father, and incited him against Jesus, and said to him, On the sabbath he has moulded clay and made . . . .

The Greek text which comes nearest to this is the one printed by Tischendorf as Ev. Thomae, rec. A (ed. 2, 1876, p. 140 f.): the corresponding passage of which is Τοῦτο τὸ παιδίον Ἰησοῦς πενταέτης γενόμενος παίζων ἦν ἐν διαβάσει ῥύακος, καὶ τὰ ῥέοντα ὕδατα συνήγαγεν εἰς λάκκους, καὶ ἐποίει αὐτὰ εὐθέως καθαρά, καὶ λόγῳ μόνῳ ἐπέταξεν αὐτά. Καὶ ποιήσας πηλὸν τρυφερὸν ἔπλασεν ἐξ αὐτοῦ στρουθία ιβ'· καὶ ἦν σάββατον ὅτε ταῦτα ἐποίησεν. ἦσαν δὲ καὶ ἄλλα παιδία πολλὰ παίζοντα σὺν αὐτῷ κ.τ.λ.

It is quite likely, however, that the Syriac Version is older than either of the existing forms of the Greek text.

§ 4. Description of the ancient MS. of the Gospels in Syriac which was broken up to furnish vellum for John the Recluse.

We have already seen (supra, p. xv) that 142 leaves of this valuable codex are still extant. Twenty-two leaves have disappeared, but five of these, two at the beginning and three at the end, did not contain any part of the Gospel text. The whole book originally consisted of 17 quires, all of which were quinions, or quires of ten leaves, except the sixth, the fifteenth and the sixteenth, which were quaternions, or quires of eight.

In two places the decipherers seemed to find traces of signatures to the original quires. In the corner of a leaf which according to the table of reconstruction (p. xxv) proves to be the first of the fourth quire Mr Harris found a letter which he read (with some hesitation) as ܒ. And on the last leaf of the fifth quire Prof. Bensly and Mr Burkitt found a very distinct signature ܓ, which as Mr Burkitt observes may be either the letter ܓ, and signify "quire three," or the Syriac arithmetical figure denoting "five." Either interpretation is possible; for old Syriac MSS. sometimes have their quires signed with letters, sometimes with figures, sometimes with both; and if this ܓ stood alone one would not hesitate to interpret it as 5 (which is correct) and not as 3 (which is incorrect). Mr Harris's ܒ, though not quite certain, speaks for the other interpretation; it is, however, a curious anomaly that the fourth and fifth quires should be numbered 2 and 3 respectively.

We give in tabular form (infra pp. xxv ff.), the contents of the successive pages of the MS., first following the order of the book as at present arranged, and then adding a supplementary table to shew the order of the palimpsest gospels before they were adjusted to the more modern volume.

These tables have been drawn up for me by Mr Harris.

The writing of the Gospels is in two columns with an uncertain number of lines in each. There are no lines ruled for the text, but vertical ones existed on the side of each page in the original manuscript. The writing is very distinct in some places, but in others it is so faded that it could not have been read, had I not obtained permission to make use of a re-agent, hydrosulphide of ammonia, recommended to me by Mr Scott, Keeper of the MSS. in the British Museum. I trust that the friends who accomplished the very difficult work of transcription have forgiven all the evil scents which they endured from this compound in consideration of its having added about a sixth more to the words which they were able to copy out. Those who have had practical experience of palimpsests will understand that with all our pains it was not possible to restore every part of the writing to legibility.

It was under my brush that the colophons of the Gospels appeared. They are of the highest importance, and had for the most part wholly disappeared, but a touch of the brush brought them up in rich brown colour. The sense of the final and most important colophon may be expressed as follows: "Here ends the Gospel of the Mĕpharrĕshē, four books (or writers): glory to God and to His Christ and to His Holy Spirit. Let every one that reads and hears and observes and does, pray for the sinner that wrote it, that God may have mercy on him, and remit him his sins in both worlds. Amen and Amen."

This colophon was followed on the same page by a column of writing, probably in some different coloured ink, perhaps yellow or green, on which all my efforts to employ the re-agent between the lines of the Martyrology brought up only a few isolated letters. The loss is the more to be regretted, as the supplementary matter would have certainly added to our knowledge of the history of the text.

We have not succeeded in finding a date to the original MS. of the Gospels. I have little doubt that one exists in the column which I have just described. If I am right in supposing that this part of the colophon was written with a different kind of ink to that employed for the first sentence, it may possibly yet reveal its secret to the hand that shall touch it with another re-agent.

With regard to the punctuation, it is important to observe (with Mr Harris) that the division into paragraphs in our text and in the Cureton MS. is often identical. Not only so, but in many places there is a line for line agreement. In illustration of this I would cite the following passages:

Matt. v. 3—10 sixteen lines agree, with only one break.
Matt. xii. 43 six lines agree.
Matt. xiii. 10, 11 six lines.
Matt. xxii. 1—3 eight lines.
Matt. xxii. 14—16 six lines.
Matt. xxiii. 22—23 seven lines.
Luke vii. 34—38 twenty-one lines agree with two breaks.
Luke vii. 41—43 eight lines agree.
Luke vii. 44 five lines.
Luke vii. 48—viii. 1 eight lines.
Luke viii. 16 five lines.

Luke viii. 30, 31 five lines.
Luke viii. 34, 35 ten lines.
Luke ix. 3—5 eleven lines.
Luke xiii. 31, 32 nine lines.
Luke xx. 44—46 eight lines.
Luke xx. 47—xxi. 2 eight lines.
Luke xxi. 29, 30 six lines.
Luke xxiii. 46, 47 seven lines.
Luke xxiii. 56—xxiv. 4 fourteen lines.

Mr Harris says that the paragraphs are divided into short sentences by stops, which, where they can be traced in the palimpsest writing, agree frequently with the red stops in the Cureton MS. This shows us that the linear and colometric arrangement of the MS. from which they were both taken, may be of very high antiquity[1] Mr Harris also suspects that the MS. may be in parts doubly palimpsest. There are traces of an earlier and smaller Syriac hand, especially on page 63, but our re-agent failed to produce any effect in making it legible.

§ 5. Concluding Remarks.

Before the discovery of the Sinai Codex the Old Syriac Version, which stands side by side with the Old Latin in antiquity and importance for New Testament criticism, was represented by a single mutilated copy, written circa 450—470, and formerly the property of S. Maria Deipara in the Nitrian desert. Of this codex 82½ leaves are now in the British Museum (Add. 14,451; No. cxix. of Wright's Catalogue). Their contents were published by Cureton in 1858. Three other leaves are in the Royal Library at Berlin, having been used as fly-leaves in a volume emanating from the same convent, which came to the library through the well-known Egyptologist Dr Brugsch (Brugsch Pasha). The contents of these leaves were published by Rödiger in the Monatsberichte of the Berlin Academy for July 1872, and were also privately printed in a very small edition by the late Prof. W. Wright.

In this MS. the order of the Gospels is Matthew, Mark, John, Luke. All that exists of them is[2]:

Matthew i. 1—viii. 22; x. 32—xxiii. 25*.
Mark xvi. 17*—20.
John i. 1—42*; iii. 5*—viii. 19*; xiv. 10*—12*; 15*—19*; 21*—23*; 26*—29*.
Luke ii. 48*—iii. 16*; vii. 33*—xvi. 12; xvii. 1*—xxiv. 44*.

[1] Mr Burkitt, however, does not take the same view.
[2] The asterisks denote that only part of the verse is preserved.

In the Sinai Codex, as we have seen, 22 leaves out of 164 are missing; thus the following verses are altogether lost from it:

Matt. vi. 10—viii. 3; xvi. 15—xvii. 11; xx. 25—xxi. 19; xxviii. 8—Mark i. 12; i. 44—ii. 20; iv. 18—v. 1; v. 27—vi. 4; Luke i. 16—38; v. 29—vi. 11; John i. 1—24; i. 47—ii. 15; iv. 38—v. 5; v. 27—45; xviii. 32—xix. 48.

Of the remaining 142 leaves some are practically illegible, so that only isolated letters or at most isolated words can be made out; but by far the greater part of the pages have been more or less fully deciphered. Thus in the Sinai Codex large portions of this ancient version which appeared to be entirely lost have been happily recovered; and, what is not less important, we have now two authorities for a considerable part of the Gospels, and thus for the first time possess evidence as to the nature and range of the variations which existed between different copies of this version. Thus, to give but one striking example, the disputed verses at the end of Mark's Gospel were present in the Nitrian MS. (though only the closing verses of the passage are preserved) but are lacking in the Sinai Codex.

To speak further of the many interesting readings of the new manuscript would carry us beyond the scope of the present Introduction; they must for the present be left to the reader's own study. But those who approach this volume without previous familiarity with the Old Syriac Version and the learned discussions to which it has given rise, may be glad to have under their eyes a brief statement by the most competent authority of the place which this version, as hitherto known, holds among the documents for the history of the Gospel text. This I take from the Introduction to Westcott and Hort's New Testament in Greek (London 1882) p. 84.

"The principal [Syriac version] is the great popular version commonly called the Peshito or Simple. External evidence as to its date and history is entirely wanting: but there is no reason to doubt that it is at least as old as the Latin Version. Till recently it has been known only in the form which it finally received by an evidently authoritative revision, a Syriac 'Vulgate,' answering to the Latin 'Vulgate.' The impossibility of treating this present form of the version as a true representation of its original text, without neglecting the clearest internal evidence, was perceived by Griesbach and Hug about the beginning of this century: it must, they saw, have undergone subsequent revision in conformity with Greek MSS. In other words, an Old Syriac must have existed as well as an Old Latin. Within the last few years the surmise has been verified. An imperfect Old Syriac copy of the Gospels, assigned to the fifth century, was found by Cureton among MSS brought to the British Museum from Egypt in 1842, and was published by him in 1858. The character of the fundamental text confirms the great antiquity of the version in its original form; while many readings suggest that, like the Latin version, it degenerated by transcription and perhaps also by irregular revision. The rapid variation which we know the Greek and Latin texts to have undergone in the earliest centuries would hardly be absent in Syria; so that a single MS cannot be expected to tell us more of the Old Syriac generally than we should learn from any one average Old Latin MS respecting Old Latin texts generally. But even this partially corrupted text is not only itself a valuable authority but, renders the comparatively late and 'revised' character of the Syriac Vulgate a matter of certainty. The authoritative revision seems to have taken place either in the latter part of the third or in the fourth century."

One of the most interesting features of the Sinai Codex is the way in which it bears out the conjecture of Drs Westcott and Hort as to the probable range of variations between copy and copy of this version.

Of late years there has been a good deal of discussion as to the relation between the Old Syriac Gospels and the Diaṭessarōn of Tatian, and in these controversies the title Evangelion da-Mĕpharrĕshē, which, as we have seen, occurs in the colophon of the Sinai Codex, has played no small part. On this subject it may not be out of place to cite the words of a very eminent authority, the late Prof. W. Wright, whose statement in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, 9th ed., Art. "Syriac Literature," sums up what was known on the subject before the discovery of the Sinai Codex.

"As to the Pĕshīṭtā version of the Gospels (P)," says Dr Wright, "a variety of critical questions arise when we consider it in connexion with two other works, the Dia-ṭessarōn of Tatian (T) and the Curetonian Gospels (Sc). Tatian, the friend of Justin Martyr, afterwards counted a heretic, composed out of the four Gospels a work which received the title of τὸ διὰ τεσσάρων εὐαγγέλιον, in Syriac more briefly Dia-ṭessarōn, or Evangelion da-Mĕḥallĕṭē, the 'Gospel of the Mixed.' It is a subject of controversy whether Tatian wrote this work in Greek or in Syriac, and whether he compiled it from the Greek Gospels or from a previous Syriac version. According to Zahn and Baethgen, the author's language was Syriac, his sources Greek. They hold this was the only Gospel in use in the Syrian Church for nearly a century, but that about the year 250, under the influence of Western MSS. of the Greek text...a version of 'the Separate Gospels,' Evangelion da-Mĕpharrĕshē, was introduced. The translator, according to Baethgen, made use of T as far as he could; and of this text Sc. is, in the opinion of these scholars, the solitary survival in our days. The evidence for this view does not, however, appear to be conclusive. It seems that a Syriac version of the four Gospels, as well as of the other parts of the New Testament, must have existed in the 2nd century, perhaps even before the version of the Old Testament. From this Tatian may have compiled his Dia-ṭessarōn, or he may have written that work in Greek and others may have done it into Syriac. Be that as it may, T certainly gained great popularity in the early Syrian Church, and almost superseded the Separate Gospels. Aphraates quoted it; Ephraim wrote a commentary upon it; the Doctrine of Addai or Addaeus (in its present shape a work of the latter half of the 4th century), transfers it to the apostolic times; Rabbūlā, bishop of Edessa (411—435), promulgated an order, that 'the priests and deacons should take care that in every church there should be a copy of the Separate Gospels (Evangelion da-Mĕpharrĕshē), and that it should be read'; and Theodoret, bishop of Cyrrhus (423—457), swept up more than two hundred copies of Tatian in churches of his diocese, and introduced the Four Gospels in their place: τὰ τῶν τεττάρων εὐαγγελιστῶν ἀντεισήγαγον εὐαγγέλια. The result of these and other well-meant efforts is that not a single copy of T has come down to our times. Both Aphraates and Ephraim, however, made use of the Separate Gospels. The former seems to have employed a text which Baethgen calls a slightly revised form of Sc; we would rather speak of it as a revised form of the old Syriac Gospels of the 2nd century. The latter made use of a more thorough Edessene revision, closely approaching in form to, if not identical with, P (Baethgen, p. 95; Zahn, p. 63)."

This work has been completed under the shadow of much sorrow. One of its transcribers, who held a foremost place amongst European scholars, he on whose accurate learning and ripe judgment we relied for its final revision, Professor Bensly, has been called to his reward in another world. The loss for this edition is great, but it will be still more severely felt when the critical text of the Old Syriac version from the two manuscripts comes to be written. Moreover, while these sheets are passing through the Press another great Semitic scholar, Professor W. Robertson Smith, a man distinguished for the wonderful scope both of his sympathies and of his learning, and who presided over the arrangements for publishing this edition, has been taken from our midst. Of the work done by Professor Bensly, by Mr Rendel Harris and by Mr Burkitt I can only speak with sincere admiration, and my cordial thanks are due to the friends who have helped us with their advice, and to the Rev. R. H. Kennett, University Lecturer in Aramaic, who has kindly assisted me in revising the Syriac extracts in this Introduction. I wish also to record my sense of gratitude to Porphyrios, Archbishop of Mt. Sinai, and to the community of monks, for the great cordiality with which they seconded the efforts of their late lamented abbot, Father Galaktion, to make our work in their Library pleasant and successful. Nor must I forget my sister, Mrs James Y. Gibson, without whose constant aid my photographs of the manuscript would probably never have been produced.

(1) NOTES BY J. R. H.

The transcripts made by me on Mount Sinai have been verified, as far as possible, from Mrs Lewis' photographs. It often happens in the reading of a palimpsest, that the photograph of it will bring up some details of the faded writing with greater clearness than is attainable in direct reading. I have not, however, made any distinction between letters or words transcribed from the MS and those few additional details which may have been deciphered from the photograph.

Where the text shews some peculiarity of spelling, I have not thought it necessary to add a justifying note at every point; and I hope that as I have made a careful search for printers' errors, the results of which investigation are given in the table of errata, that the pages which I have printed may be taken as a true representation of what I read in the Codex.

I am much indebted to Mr Kennett for his assistance in reading the proof-sheets, and for many valuable suggestions.

S. MATTHEW

p. 5 b 19 (Mt iii 2) — I am very doubtful over the word ܩܕܒܬ. I printed it because I read it and took it to be a copyist's error for ܩܪܒܬ. But it is quite possible that a closer scrutiny of the passage will shew that the error is my own.

p. 8 a 2 (Mt iv 14) — A point should, I think, be added after ܢܒܝܐ, if one may judge from the photograph.

p. 8 a 15 (Mt iv 18) — Probably the missing word before ܣܦܬܗ is ܥܠ, but I cannot read it clearly enough to print it.

p. 18 — In many places of this page the writing has been scraped out with a knife.

p. 26 a 2 (Mt xi 18) — The text is clearly ܘܐܡܪܝܢ and not ܘܐܡܪܝܢ ܐܢܬܘܢ.

p. 35 a 9 (Mt xiv 3) — The spelling ܦܝܠܝܦܘܣ is not clear; it looks somewhat like ܦܠܠܦܘܣ; the whole of this page is hard to read, for it is covered with a diagram of painted circles, and the text can hardly be read unless the paint were washed off. The left-hand margin of the page is also much broken and a good many letters are carried away.

p. 36 — More of this page can be read by detaching the flap of the binding: but this I hesitated to do, for fear of damaging the book.

p. 37 a 2 (Mt xiv 32) — The word ܦܣܩܬ is not certain: probably it would have been better to 'star' the place. The letters ܣ and ܬ are, I think, right; and the word is not ܫܠܬ in my judgment, which is what one would have expected.

p. 40 — In the right-hand top corner there is a small hole in the vellum which has destroyed a couple of letters. In v. 12 after ܫܪܝܪܐ there is another small hole, but nothing is here lost, as far as I can see.

p. 54 a — There are some scribe's errors in this page: in Mt xxi 32 he reads ܗܝܡܬܘܢ for ܗܝܡܢܬܘܢ and lower down has ܕܬܗܝܡܘܢ for ܕܬܗܝܡܢܘܢ.

p. 56 b 2 (Mt xxii 19) — Two letters are lost, through a hole in the vellum.

p. 82 a 10 (Mk i 29) — We should have expected ܘܐܢܕܪܐܘܣ, but the word has evidently puzzled the scribe. The photograph shews some traces of the missing ܘ.

p. 91 a 15 (Mk v 5) — I am not quite clear over the word ܘܡܫܡܫܐ; probably it would have been better to put it in brackets.

p. 100 b 8 (Mk vii 18) — In the MS ܟܘܠ seems to be written ܒܘܠ.

p. 101 a 11 (Mk vii 26) — ܐܪܡܠܠܬܐ is, of course, a scribe's blunder for ܐܪܡܝܬܐ.

p. 121 a 6 (Mk xiii 25) — The missing word is probably ܘܢܦܠܘܢ; in fact I read all the letters except ܠ.

p. 123 a 5 (Mk xiv 11) — The MS is clear for ܦܠܓܐ.

p. 131 a 14 (Mk xvi 4) — The final yud in ܘܐܙܠܝ is quite clear in the MS.

p. 131 b (Mk xvi 7, 8) — It is very difficult in these verses to determine whether the feminine verbs have the final yud. My copy has in v. 8 ܥܪܩܝ and ܢܦܩܝ, but not ܐܙܠܝ; and in the last line after ܐܡܪ the MS shews what may be a mark of punctuation or a final yud. Probably it would have been better to mark the final letters with suspicion.

p. 155 b 19, 20 (Lk vi 44) I suspect that the ܐ in ܬܐܢܐ is absent from the text. In the same verse ܡܢ has dropped out before ܟܘܒ̈ܐ.

p. 156 a 9 (Lk vi 47) ܐܫܘܟܘܢ sic!

p. 156 a 17 (Lk vi 48) The ܢ at the end of ܕܢܚܡܘܒܗܢ is, I think, not in the MS; at all events, the photograph shews no sign of it, and it should probably be removed.

p. 160 a 23 (Lk vii 44) ܫܢܬ; so, apparently, without a ܢ.

pp. 161, 162 These pages suffer from the loss of a large part of the margins, the leaf being much broken.

p. 166 b 2 (Lk ix 1) The error ܚܠܝܐ for ܚܝܠܐ is curious; I print the MS, however, as it appears.

p. 169 a 17 (Lk ix 32) The MS is clear for ܡܢܝܪܘ.

p. 169 b 10 (Lk ix 35) We have probably printed ܗܢܐ by error for ܗܢܘ.

p. 170 b 7 (Lk ix 45) I do not print ܕܩܘܝܐ, for there is no sign of ܢ in the MS.

p. 189 a 14 (Lk xiii 25) ܒܪ̈ܐ is, I think, ܒܪ̈ܗ in the MS: at all events the last letter should be marked doubtful. In the same verse ܘܡܩܫܩܫܝܢ is not quite certain.

p. 190 a 11 (Lk xiii 32) ܘܡܚܪܐ is in the MS.

p. 205 b 1 (Lk xviii 22) ܚܕܡ sic!

p. 224 b 10 (Lk xxiii 8) ܠܡܚܙܝܗܝ is quite clear in the MS.

S. JOHN

p. 289 a 19 (Jn xiii 22) The form ܗܟܢ is peculiar, but I can make nothing else of it. I tested it with re-agent for ܗܟܡ but could not detect the letter I was in search of.

p. 291 a 4 (Jn xiv 1) ܘܗ is the reading of the MS.

p. 291 a 20 (Jn xiv 5) The scribe seems to have dropped the ܘ in ܐܘܪܚܐ.

p. 292 a 14 (Jn xiv 17) I think I see traces of a point over ܗ in ܢܚܙܝܗ; indicating the feminine (ܪܘܚܐ).

p. 303 b 15 (Jn xviii 16) A word appears to have been lost after ܥܠ; perhaps ܬܪܥܐ. In the same verse and in the next, we have twice ܢܛܪ where we should have expected a feminine.

p. 304 b 21 (Jn xviii 31) The reading after ܕܢܡܘܣ is not quite clear. I incline to think that it is ܕܢܡܘܣܐ: it is, however, possible that the use of a re-agent would bring up ܕܢܡܘܣܟܘܢ.

p. 313 a 1 (Jn xx 17) The feminine termination in ܙܠܝ is quite clear.

p. 313 b The last line is illegible to me; and the last but one difficult; it is possible that ܘܡܛܠ is followed by ܐܢܐ: the suspicion is indicated by the addition of a star.

p. 315 a 15 (Jn xxi 5) There is a little space after ܠܡܠܥܣ which appears to contain a couple of letters, and the application of a reagent brought up traces of the word ܒܗ. But I do not see the force of the word and have marked it with suspicion.

p. 316 b 15 (Jn xxi 16) In the word ܢܩܘܬܝ, the last five letters are clear, and form a regularly spelt word; but there is a decided trace of another letter at the beginning, which can hardly be anything else than a yud. Accordingly I print it, but with some hesitation.

p. 316 b 24 (Jn xxi 17) There is a small hole in the vellum which affects the reading of a couple of letters in the last line.

(2) NOTES BY F. C. B.

On the death of the late Professor Bensly two days after his return to England from Mount Sinai, the transcript of his share of the MS was handed over to me by his widow to prepare for publication. He had not had time to correct his work and many pages therefore were far from being in the state in which he would have wished his work to see the light. I have since carefully revised Professor Bensly's and my own transcripts from the photographs of the MS taken by Mrs Lewis, and by this means—especially by the photographs taken in 1893—I have been able to fill up in some measure many important blanks. In the cases where the text as printed differs from what Professor Bensly appears to have regarded as the reading of the MS, I have given his reading in the notes, but I have not here enumerated mere slips, nor the many minor additions of words or single lines gained from the photograph.

The pages read by both Professor Bensly and myself at Sinai, which were therefore revised from the MS itself, are signed with the initials of both of us without brackets, while those pages which have been deciphered from the photograph alone by me since our return from Sinai bear my initials in brackets. In certain cases where Professor Bensly had only time at Sinai to read a few words, but where I have been able to add a considerable number of lines from the photograph, the page bears Professor Bensly's initials in round brackets with mine in square brackets below.

In the notes which follow I have chiefly tried to indicate my belief that certain readings which might appear to be errors in that part of the edition for which I am responsible are really the readings of the MS. With regard to the suffixes of the Imperfect, it will suffice to say that while many examples of the ordinary form in ܝܘܗܝ are found in clean pages, all the irregular forms in ܘܗܝ and most of those in ܗܝ have been verified from the photograph.

I am very glad to have this opportunity of expressing my thanks to my friend the Rev. R. H. Kennett, who most kindly read through the proofs of the parts for which I am responsible. In not a few instances his accurate knowledge of Syriac led him to make suggestions which on examination of the photographs I have been able to accept as the reading of the MS.

p. 2*a* 6 (Mt i 2) ܘܐܚܘܗܝ] possibly my error for ܘܠܐܚܘܗܝ; the photograph is illegible.

p. 2*a* 19, 20 (Mt i 6, 7) ܠܫܠܡܘܢ ... ܫܠܡܘܢ] sic.

p. 4 a 6 (Mt ii 6) ܗܘܝܬ] sic.

p. 4 b 10 (Mt ii 12) ܠܗ ܗܪܘܕܣ] sic.

p. 9 b 2 (Mt v 11) ܢܗܘܡ] the word is more like ܢܗܘܝ; it is not ܢܗܘܘܢ, and it does not look like ܢܗܘܢ.

p. 11 a 15 (Mt v 31) ܕܕܘܠܐ] sic; photograph illegible.

p. 12 a 17, 18 (Mt v 48) ܐܝܟܢܐ is squeezed in between the lines by the original scribe.

p. 12 a 26 (Mt vi 2) ܢܫܒܚܡ] sic.

p. 20 b 17 (Mt ix 20) ܕܡܪ̈ܛܘܛܐ appears to have been originally written, and changed at once into ܕܡܪ̈ܛܘܛܗ.

p. 44 b 25 (Mt xviii 8) ܟܕ ܐܢ] the ܐܢ appears to have been washed out.

p. 50 a 6 (Mt xx 14) ܫ[ ]ܩܘܠ] there appears to be room for one letter only in the blot between the ܫ and the ܠ.

p. 50 b 19 (Mt xx 23) ܟܣܝ] changed by the original scribe into ܟܣܐ.

p. 60 a 2 (Mt xxiii 28) * * ܡ̈ܠܝܢ] in Prof. Bensly's transcript the line runs ܡ̈ܠܝܢ ܥܘܠܐ ܘܡܣܒܐܘܬܐ . .

but with marks of doubt. In the photograph the left half of the line is illegible, but the word after ܡ̈ܠܝܢ looks to me more like ܢܟ[ܠܐ].

p. 70 a 14 (Mt xxvi 36) ܒܡܣܡܣܗܘܢ] sic.

p. 73 a 9 (Mt xxvi 69) ܓܠܝܠܐ] sic.

p. 74 b 13 (Mt xxvii 16) ܘܒܛܠ] sic.

p. 78 a 23 (Mt xxvii 65) ܩܣܛܘܪܝ] sic.

p. 78 b 1 (Mt xxvii 66) ܘܚܬܡܗ] sic, but the photograph is illegible.

p. 78 b 18 (Mt xxviii 5) * * ܬܕܚܠ] ܬܕܚܠܢ transcript; photograph illegible.

p. 86 a 24 (Mk iii 11) ܦܝܣܐܘܬܐ] sic.

p. 86 b 2 (Mk iii 12) ܢܬܘܕܥܘܢܗ] sic.

p. 86 b 5 (Mk iii 14) ܘܠܒܐ] this word appears to have been corrected in the MS.

p. 88 b 1 (Mk iv 11) ܢܗܒ] sic.

p. 95 a 21 (Mk vi 9) ܣܘܬܘܣܝܢ] sic.

p. 96 The signature ܠ is quite distinct in the photograph.

p. 97 a 7 (Mk vi 30) ܕܥܒܕ ܘܐܠܦ] sic.

p. 97 b 9 (Mk vi 36) ܕܫܪܪܝܢ] sic, but it is possible that the second ܪ was intended for a ܘ (the scribe having begun to write ܫܪܘܗܝ), and that the dot over it is a mark of deletion.

p. 105 a 12 (Mk ix 2) ܬܚ] sic transcript, probably through my mistake; photograph illegible.

p. 106 a 4 (Mk ix 12) ܠܐ] sic.

p. 111 a 6 (Mk x 29) ܕܟܠ] sic.

p. 112 a 8 (Mk x 40) ܠܐܚܪܝܢ] sic.

p. 115 b 7 (Mk xii 1) ܡܣܟܢܬܐ] ܪ added above the line by the scribe.

p. 118 a 21, 22 (Mk xii 34) ܘܐܢܫ ܘܬܘܒ] sic.

p. 127 b 1 (Mk xiv 70) ܕܓܠܝܠܐ] sic.

p. 129 b 4 (Mk xv 29) ܡܢܝܟܝܢ] sic transcript, but very probably my mistake for ܡܢܝܕܝܢ; photograph illegible.

p. 129 b 5 (Mk xv 29) ܐܘ] sic; photograph illegible.

p. 130 a 21 (Mk xv 40) ܕܩܝܡܝܢ] sic.

p. 135 b 21 (Lk i 53) ܦ⸢ܩܢ⸣ܝܢ] or ܦ⸢ܪ⸣ܢܝܢ.

p. 136 b 1 (Lk i 65) ܘܬܡܢܗܘ] sic.

p. 137 a 17 (Lk i 79) ܬܢܗܪ] the only instance in this MS where ܪ seems clearly undotted.

p. 138 The greater part of this page has been read from the photograph only, but Prof. Bensly read vv. 12—14.

p. 140 a 5 (Lk ii 30) ⸢ܫ⸣ܢܢ] the first ܢ is quite clear.

p. 140 a 20 (Lk ii 35) ܬܡܒܪܢܗ] sic.

p. 144 b 8, 9 (Lk iii 33) The half illegible line has been squeezed in by the original scribe.

p. 145 a 20 (Lk iv 6) ܡܥܠܒܝܢ] sic transcript; photograph illegible.

p. 145*a* 23 (Lk iv 6) *ܢܗܒ] there is certainly no letter between the ܗ and the ܒ but I cannot say whether there is a letter or not in the place of the asterisk.

p. 145*b* 4 (Lk iv 9) ܘܐܬܝܗܢ] sic.

p. 146*a* 5 (Lk iv 17) ܘܝܗܒ] sic.

p. 146*a* 10, 11, 13 (Lk iv 18) The variation in the suffixes is quite clear.

p. 147*a* 14 (Lk iv 29) ܠܟܪܢ] of this word ܠܟ is perfectly distinct; the third letter is either ܕ or ܪ, and there are fairly clear traces of the right-hand portion of the final ܢ

p. 148*a* 2 (Lk iv 40) ܡܚܪܒܐ] sic transcript, Professor Bensly not marking the reading as doubtful; the last letter is illegible in the photograph.

p. 148*b* 6 (Lk v 1) ܡܣܝܢܐ] sic transcript; photograph illegible.

p. 153*a* 1 (Lk vi 12) ܡܣܬܐ] sic.

p. 153*b* 5 (Lk vi 18) ܘܡܬܐܠܨܝܢ] sic.

p. 157*b* 12 (Lk vii 14, 15) The words ܩܘܡ and ܩܡ are too much spread out in the MS to admit of a whole word between them.

p. 158*b* 11 (Lk vii 25) ܘܡܦܢܩܐ] sic.

p. 168*b* 5 (Lk ix 23) ܒܐܬܪܝ] sic.

p. 171*a* 6 (Lk ix 50) It is possible that the line ending with ܚܠܦܝܟܘܢ was followed by a short line consisting of the word ܗܘ and a stop, but there is no indication of such an addition in Prof. Bensly's transcript, and the photograph is illegible.

p. 179*a* 19 (Lk xi 36) ܐܦ] sic; photograph illegible.

p. 179*b* 2 (Lk xi 37) ⌜ܘܥ⌝ܕ] there is a stain over this word in the MS, but I could find no trace of the long stroke which I should have expected to be visible had the word been ܘܥܠ. All the letters in the next line are quite visible in the MS.

p. 179*b* 7 (Lk xi 39) ܠܒܪ] sic.

p. 180*a* 15 (Lk xi 46) ܕܠܚܒܝܢ] sic.

p. 181*a* 12 (Lk xii 1) ܢܣܒܘܢ] sic.

p. 181*b* 8 (Lk xii 5) ܐܢ] sic.

p. 181 b 10 (Lk xii 6) ܙܒܢܝܢ] ܒܡܥܐ Professor Bensly's transcript, but with an expression of doubt. The final ܙ is clear in the photograph of 1893.

p. 182 b 12 (Lk xii 18) The sign at the end is a flourish to fill up the line.

p. 185 a 5, 6 (Lk xii 43) ܒܐܬܐ is squeezed in between the lines by the original scribe.

p. 185 b 12 (Lk xii 49) ܕܓܒܐ] sic.

p. 186 b 14, 19, 21 (Lk xiii 1, 2) ܓܠܠܝܐ] sic.

p. 186 b 24 (Lk xiii 3) ܬܬܒܘܢ] sic.

p. 191 b 11 (Lk xiv 12) ܐܝܬ] expunged.

p. 195 a 12 (Lk xv 15) ܒܢ̈ܝ ܗܘ ܐܬܪܐ] sic.

p. 196 a 1 (Lk xv 23) ܘܐܝܬܝܘ] sic.

p. 201 a 1 (Lk xvii 9) ܕܦܩܝܕ] sic.

p. 202 a 8 (Lk xvii 23) ܬܪܛܘܢ] ܗ added above the line by the scribe.

p. 203 a 14 (Lk xvii 37) ܢܬܟܫܘܢ] sic.

p. 203 b 3 (Lk xviii 3) ܗܘܐ] sic.

p. 210 b 23 (Lk xix 44) ܕܣܥܘܪܢܢ] sic.

p. 212 b 3 (Lk xx 16) ܠܢܪ] sic.

p. 216 a 25 (Lk xxi 15) A flourish at the end as in Lk xii 18.

p. 217 a 6 (Lk xxi 24) ܕܚܘܪܒܐ] ܘ expunged by the scribe.

p. 217 a 15 (Lk xxi 25) ܘܪܘܫܠ] the ܠ at the end is quite distinct, and the disposition of the upper writing is such that the illegible letter can be hardly anything but ܪ.

p. 225 b 2 (Lk xxiii 21) ܙܩܘܦܗܝ ܙܩܦܝܗܝ] sic.

p. 228 a 8 (Lk xxiii 50) ܒܘܠܛܐ] sic.

p. 228 b 24 (Lk xxiv 4) The same flourish as in Lk xii 18 and xxi 15.

p. 229 b 12 (Lk xxiv 12) ܫܕܦ] sic.

p. 230 a 2 (Lk xxiv 16) ܐܚܝܕܝܢ ܗܘܢ] sic.

p. 230 a 3 (Lk xxiv 16) ܢܫܬܘܕܥܘܢܗ] sic.

p. 239*b* 24 (Jn iii 2)	ܒܠܠܐ] sic.
p. 240*b* 8 (Jn iii 8)	ܗ̈ܘ̈] expunged.
p. 241*a* 14 (Jn iii 13)	ܗܡ] sic.
p. 242*a* 7 (Jn iii 23)	ܢܘܢ] sic.
p. 243*b* 4 (Jn iv 2)	ܒܠܣܘܪ.] this word is doubtful. There is a smudge or erasure at the end of the line, and the first letter may be a ܒ. What is certain is the ܠ and a stroke following it which may be a ܝ or the first half of a ܫ.
p. 253*a* 9 (Jn vi 1)	ܕܛܒܪܝܣ] sic.
p. 256*b* 12 (Jn vi 40) and p. 257*b* 16 (Jn vi 54)	ܘܐܩܝܡܘܗܝ] the spelling of this word is especially distinct even in the photograph.
p. 258*a* 13 (Jn vi 60)	ܕܩܫܐ] sic.
p. 258*b* 1 (Jn vi 63)	ܐ * *] the first letter of this word appears to be ܪ. The word does not look like ܪܘܚܐ; it is more like ܪܒܝܐ.
p. 260*b* 24 (Jn vii 21)	ܠܟܠܗܘܢ] sic.
p. 267*b* 16 (Jn viii 47)	sic.
p. 268*b* 14 (Jn viii 57)	ܚܡܫܝܢ] sic.
p. 268*b* 15 (Jn viii 57)	ܚܙܝܬ] the ܬ is in Professor Bensly's transcript; photograph illegible.
p. 269*b* 9 (Jn ix 9)	Between ܕܐܡܪܝܢ and .ܗܘܝܘ there are marks which look somewhat like the letters ܒܪ.
p. 271*b* and 272*a*	The tops of these columns are lost through the MS being torn.
p. 273*a* 7 (Jn x 3)	ܘܫܡܥܘܬܗ] the letters ܫܡ of this word are, as I have indicated, illegible; as however every letter of ܫܡܥܘܬܐ ver. 8 and all the letters of ܫܡܥܘܬܗ ver. 4 except the ܫ are clear even in the photograph, I have not hesitated to read ܘܫܡܥܘܬܗ instead of ܘܩܘܒܠܬܗ. (ܩܘܒܠܬܢ is assured in Jn x 26.)

p. 274 b 4, 5 (Jn x 18) ܕܐܣܝܡܝܗܝ ... ܐܫܩܠܝܗܝ] in each case the ܝ at the end is clear.

p. 274 b 18 (Jn x 21) ܕܕܝܘܐ] sic.

p. 275 b 18 (Jn x 33) ܘ * ܥܒܕ] the place corresponding to the asterisk is filled by two letters which look like ܠܟ. It is not impossible however from what is visible in the photograph that the scribe wrote ܥܒܕܥܒܕ by a dittography.

p. 275 b 19 (Jn x 33) ܐܠܗ.] there is clearly no ܐ after the ܗ.

p. 280 b 8 (Jn xi 45) ܡܠܛ ܡܪܝܡ] sic.

p. 280 b 11 (Jn xi 46) ܗܦܟܘܢ] sic.

p. 282 a 21 (Jn xii 3) ܕܠܛܝܪ] sic.

p. 283 a 7 (Jn xii 9) ܠܚܪ] sic.

p. 284 a 8 (Jn xii 20) ܗܘܐ] sic.

p. 284 a 15 (Jn xii 21) ܠܨܝܕܗ.] of this word the ܠ at the beginning and the ܗ and point at the end are quite distinct in the photograph: the ܨܝ is more covered by the upper writing. There hardly seems room however for two letters between the end of the ܝ and what is visible of the ܗ.

p. 285 b 18, 19 (Jn xii 36) The break here indicated is visible in the photograph, though the line preceding and the line following are illegible.

p. 286 a 7 (Jn xii 39) ܐܡܪ] sic, not ܕܐܡܪ.

p. 286 a 8 (Jn xii 40) ܒܝܢܗܘܢ] sic, not ܒܝܢܝܗܘܢ.

p. 288 b 7 (Jn xiii 15) ܕܚܘܬܟܘܢ] sic.

p. 288 b 10 (Jn xiii 16) ܐܡܪܢܐ is added above the line by the scribe.

p. 293 b 9 (Jn xiv 31) ܩܘܡܘ] the stroke at the end of this word is simply used to fill up the vacant space at the end of the line as in a few other places in this MS.

p. 295 b 23 (Jn xv 24) ܠܚܣܘܢ] sic.

p. 296 b 22 (Jn xvi 9) ܢܝܛܠܐ] sic.

p. 311 a 3 (Jn xix 40) ܣܘܪܛܬܐ] ܣܘܪܛܬܐ transcript.

p. 311 a 22 (Jn xx 1) ܕܡܓܠܐ] ܡܓܕܠܐ transcript, but with a mark of uncertainty.

p. 312 b 21 (Jn xx 16) — ܠܩܡ] the ܡ at the end of this word is not very clear.

p. 317 a 16 (Jn xxi 19) — * * * ܢ] the photograph is here blurred: if a certain mark be the top of a ܬ, the missing word may be ܢܫܬܘܕܐ; if however the mark be only an accidental stain, the word will be ܢܫܒܚ. A mark at the end of the blank space looks like the left-hand limb of a ܫ.

p. 318 a 18 (Colophon) — ܣܠܘܗܘܗܝ] the scribe appears to have misspelt this word, correcting it immediately.

p. 318 b — This column is occupied by 24 lines of illegible Estrangela writing (comp. Mrs Lewis' Introduction, p. xx). The words ܗܕܝܢ ܐܘܢܛܠ * * appear to begin the first line. The writing is certainly not that of the scribe who wrote the rest of the MS, being somewhat smaller, the pen moreover being differently held. It may however be of about the same date.
